NURSERY ORGANIZATION

Preparing for your baby's arrival is a time of anticipation and excitement! Don't let the task of setting up a nursery stress you out! We have some tips that will help you create a calm and organized space for your baby to come home to.

Create Zones

So many different things occur in baby's room - sleeping, feeding, diapering, changing and even playtime. Make sure you designate space for each of these activities.

Make a Diaper Changing Station

Changing tables are great, but consider turning the top of baby's dresser into your diapering station. It will be one less piece of furniture in the nursery and dressers offer tons of drawer space to hold all of baby's essentials. You can also designate a space in the closet for all of your extra diapers, wipes and supplies.

Have a plan for all of those tiny baby clothes

- Decide where you will store baby's clothes, shoes and accessories - this could be in a closet on velvet hangers and in labeled baskets or file folded in dresser drawers.
- Babies grow fast! Designate a spot for items they grow out of such as a labeled bin. Also, plan on keeping the next size up handy.

Stock up your feeding station

Night time feedings often occur in the nursery. Plan ahead and make sure all of your essentials are handy! We love adding these items to a 3-tier cart or night stand and placing them right next to the chair. You can add extra burp clothes, pacifiers, bottle warmer and breast feeding supplies to your cart.

NURSERY ORGANIZATION

Create a baby library and play zone

Adding a cute book shelf and small baskets to hold the baby's toys will make everything easy to grab when it's tummy time!

Make a plan for blankets, crib sheets and swaddles

These items are perfect for those bottom dresser drawers or in a labeled basket in the closet.

Labels

Adding labels will make it easier to find all of baby's things.
